

This image shows a blank sheet of primary-ruled paper. It features a solid red border that defines the writing area. Inside this border, there are three horizontal dashed red lines that divide the space into four rows. The top row is the largest, while the three rows below it are smaller and of equal height. The paper is otherwise completely blank, with no text or markings.